

The advantage of sourcing direct from the manufacturer:

Because consumer goods companies are held liable for EPR compliance, it is in their interests to source packaging direct from the manufacturer in order to ensure that the mandates are met and the necessary certifications are received. By sourcing direct, it is easier to attain and maintain the data points necessary for EPR compliance i.e. materials and weight of package and its components. Moreover, sourcing direct allows for better supply chain management via the implementation of a due diligence protocol and data reporting.
